Advertise Your Online Business Through Auto Landing Page

Due to the global financial crisis, my husband and I were laid off from our jobs. Finding a job replacement was very hard for us especially that we are in our 40s already. Younger employees working for a pittance are more likely preferred by most companies. My husband and I switched our search on the internet for some ways on how to earn. For a couple of months, I was content with earning as a home based data encoder, while my husband was accepting freelance copy writing and web writing projects. The need for data encoders and writers went up as the months pass by. We then opened up a company offering services such as encoding, writing, and other silimar services. Instead of just accepting work from sub contractors, we became contractors ourselves. High Quality Landing Pages

Building the website and opening up the company was not really that hard. Actually, we were able to set up our blog and website in just one day. Our biggest obstacle was actually coming up with an effective online marketing campaign. Based on our research, landing pages are really effective in attracting possible clients and customers. We thought that making high quality land pages was easy since my husband is a copywriter. However, after a few weeks of not getting enough traffic, we realized that there is something wrong with our landing pages. Apparently, copy writing skills alone cannot make people stay and read on our landing pages.

It may be quite easy to find templates for websites and blogs on the internet, however, we were not able to find free landing pages templates online. Regardless of the limited funds we had, we almost considered hiring a graphic designer to build our landing pages. But then the professional designer's fee is equivalent to couple of days of data encoding and writing for us. Meanwhile, the online search for more affordable options continued.

A day before we earned the money we need to hire a designer, we stumbled upon Auto Landing Page. The website offers 30 easy-to-customize templates for less than $100 a month as our own landing pages. When we looked at the sample templates, we really liked what we saw and decided to sign up. Huge improvement in the visitor traffic came after a few days upon using the customized landing pages. In fact, we got two big clients in just a week. Thanks to Auto Landing Page we saved a lot of money and were also able to get the customers we badly needed. Landing Page Design Templates
